THE SEASONS

Because your al-fresco moment could use a little heat.

01 PALM BEACH FIREPLACE

Inspired by classic Palm Beach loggias, this Tom Scheerer-designed pool pavilion features a wood burning fireplace, perfect for cooler nights spent outdoors.

WESTERN FIRE PIT

Chairs made from rough-hewn branches surround this Wyoming ranch's in-ground fire pit, which is crafted with large rocks and surrounded by additional stonework.

SWIMMING POOL FIRE PIT

A sleek pool design is finished with a black-tiled fire pit, powered by propane for a modern look.

04

CONNECTED FIREPLACE

This sprawling Hamptons home is equipped with a dream outdoor hangout space, with an attached fireplace that blends in seamlessly with the home's facade.

LOFT LIVING

Design firm Sims Hilditch crafted an elevated children's room in a restored rectory. The neutral design features trundle beds from Tasha Beds, along with cushions from Neptune. The dome wall light fixtures from Original BTC add balance to the space and complement the star-patterned lampshade from Jim Lawrence.

POWER OF ONE

A stylish Upper East Side bedroom is a lesson in decorating with one fabric. The bed, canopy, walls, and curtains all feature an eye-catching fabric by Muriel Brandolini that gives the space a cohesive look.

MOD ART

A Kravet grasscloth wallcovering serves as the perfect backdrop for a boys' bedroom, featuring colorful wall art by David Edwards from Saatchi Art. The bedding is by St. Geneve Linens and Ralph Lauren, and the bedframes and nightstand are by CB2.

GRAPHIC BLACK AND WHITE

Black and white wallpaper, which embodies the spirit of the Pop and Op Art movement, steals the show in a teenage boy's bedroom. A black lacquered headboard adds a sophisticated flair to the space, while a punching bag and overhead track lighting add a playful vibe.

SOPHISTICATED FLAIR

PUNCH OF PURPLE

Interior designer Kim Alexandriuk used a striking palette, including gray, purple, blue, and green, in her daughter's Bel Air bedroom. A custom bed, linen curtains by Christopher Farr, Circa-1950 Murano glass lamps, and 1930s Italian tables are featured in the space.

MOROCCAN CHIC

Samuel and Caitlin Dowe-Sandes brought their daughter's neutral bedroom to life with a blue iron bed sourced at a flea market, a sculptural pendant by Claire Norcross for Luminosity, and starburst floor tiles from their firm, Popham Design.

DOSE OF ADVENTURE

A graphic map decal by Dezin With a Z infuses a dose of adventure into this boy's bedroom in a Manhattan duplex. The cozy bed is by DucDuc and the navy womb chair is by Knoll.

CLASSIC BLACK AND WHITE

This black and white Tribeca bedroom, which boasts a sports theme, is a fun place for a teenager. Outfitted with furniture by Oeuf, the sophisticated room also features a custom Madeline Weinrib rug, lighting by Atelier De Troupe and Jacoli & Mcallister, and wallpaper by Ferm Living.

COLLECTIONS

Make elegant plates and serving vessels an integral element of your decor.

When you have beautiful formal dishware, you want to show it off. Elegant plates and serving vessels become an integral element of the decor—if styled correctly—whether hung on the wall in full view of the dining table or relegated to a china hutch in the kitchen. See how expert design professionals created beautiful spaces to display their clients' curated china and ceramics collections.

CLEAN & SOPHISTICATED

Kathy Marshall Design uses green-blue cabinetry with glass doors and brass fixtures to display white, ceramic dishware.

SATISFYING SYMMETRY

— CLASSIC COLOR

Reminiscent of an older time, this vintage space by Blythe Home is completed with a display of blue and white china.

– DECORATE WITH DISHES

A dining hutch is more than a place to store dishware, it's often used as a central design element—like in this space by Brockschmidt & Coleman.

ANTIQUE MEETS MODERN

This modern dining room by Laura U boasts an antique china hutch that has been refinished with a blue stain.

A TOUCH OF MODERN

Incorporate stainless steel cabinetry for a sleek and modern touch. Breakfast area by Tim Barber.

ALL ABOUT THE ANTIQUES

SOPHISTICATED STYLE

Although dishware is often associated with vintage or rustic spaces, Annie Downing Interiors uses a sophisticated corner hutch in this contemporary dining room.

'70S

471

In search of the perfect throwback renovation? One beloved decade worth referencing is the '70s. From hippie bohemian to glitzy disco, this time period runs the gamut from natural to glamorous.

Whether you're ready to take on this style full-force, or would prefer to weave in just a few elements, there's no reason not to experiment with 70s living room design ideas.

LAYERED JUNGALOW

If hippie vibes are your thing, take note of this 1970s-inspired living room. The colorful shag carpet, exposed brick walls, oversized plants, and assortment of patterned pillows come together for a quintessential bohemian look.

MODERN RANCH

In a modern Hudson River ranch house, the living room takes inspiration from the '70s with a shag alpaca fur rug, and inlaid straw marquetry walls, which have a similar effect to the classic wood paneling.

JAPANESE ZEN

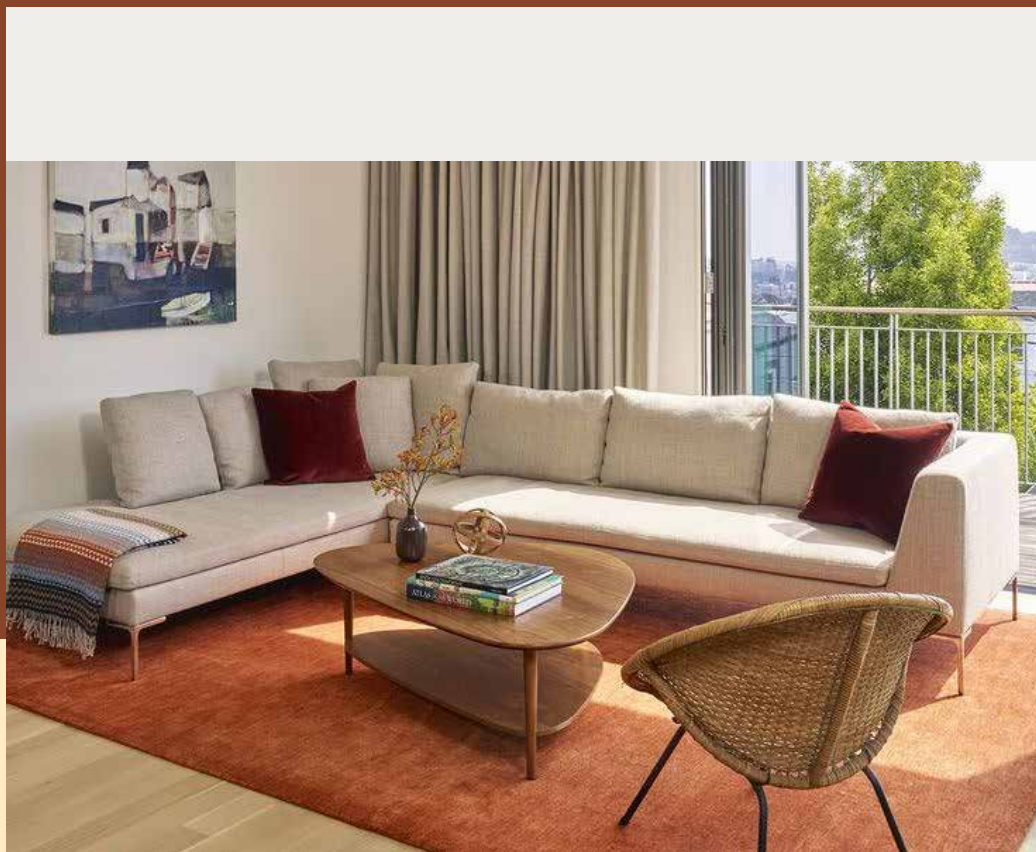

A Japanese house in upstate New York makes the case for shag in its open-concept living space. The rug—along with a 1970s floor lamp—welcome just a touch of the decade into an otherwise modern room.

WARM AND CLEAN-LINED

In a glamorous Monte Carlo apartment, pinkish-beige marble tile flooring—original to the 1970s-built building—is accented with chunky-yet-sculptural furniture that tempers the room's vintage bones.

UNDERSTATED ACCENTS

A muted dash of orange and a wicker accent chair result in a toned-down '70s vibe that can be updated over time.

GILDED PIED- À-TERRE

A warm wood palette, glitzy touches of gold, and a statement 1970s Pino Signoretto vase are offset by modern lighting and a silk rug in this London living room.
